With summer well and truly here, gardens everywhere are bursting with life and growth. But if your leaves have become a bit too luxuriant and your bushes a bit too - well - bushy, then Wilkinson Sword's telescopic cutter is just what you need!

Made from lightweight aluminium, this handy tool is easy to handle and extends from 2.4m to 4m, so you can cut back those annoying overhanging branches with no need for a ladder.

Boasting non-stick blades and a cutting head with 240-degree rotation, it will cut through stems up to 32mm in diameter. For bigger branches, there's also a saw attachment with a 37-tooth stainless steel blade. In adjustable sawing angle, even lets you tackle branches up to 10cm thick.

So cut those overgrown trees and shrubs right down to size - and let light flood into your garden!
